DEDICATION

On May 19th, 1960, one of the most tragic occurrences ever to happen in this area took place, the costly devastation of our new high school building.

The destructiveness of fire was sadly beheld by all on that unforgettable day, when the hopes, joys and years of hard work came to an abrupt halt as our beautiful school building crumbled before the fiery torrent.

The loss of our school building was much more than the money that went into it. It was a loss felt in the heart of every student, teacher and resident, it was the loss of a dream.

Primero Union High School was completed in 1955, at a cost of approximately 500,000 dollars. It contained 13 fine classrooms, a modern shop and laboratory, a very large gymnasium and a roomy cafeteria. It had been a vast improvement over the old high school and it was a modern, well equipped, and enjoyable place of learning.

SCHOOL BOARD

The Primero High Annual Staff in behalf of the student body of Primero High would like to thank the school board for all of the long hours that they have spent in trying to make our education one of the best available. We also wish to express our thanks for the fine work that has been done toward the building of our new school. That building will stand as a tribute to education long after time has erased all memories of it from our minds.

Chapter 3

THE BEGINNINGS OF GOVERNMENT IN THE UNITED STATES

The roots of American government reach deep into the past. Our system of government did not suddenly spring into being as the result of some political magician's wand. Nor was it pulled out of thin air by the Founding Fathers at Philadelphia in the summer of 1787. Rather it has developed through long centuries of history. We shall now review the principal parts of these beginnings.

Our English Heritage

The French, Spanish, Dutch, Norwegian and other European settlers in parts of what was to become the United States. But it was the English who came in the largest numbers. And it was the English who came to control the thirteen colonies that stretched for 1,300 miles along the Atlantic seaboard.

These early pioneers who entered the wilderness and fought off the Indians had to look out for their own interests. They had come here in search of greater freedom than they had known in the old country. They had brought with them their own ideas and their own political institutions. They had come to a land that was largely unsettled. There was no king or nobility to tell them what to do. They were free to work out their own destinies.

SETTLERS AT WORK

Early Americans had to live together in harmony, or they would not survive. This was called "government by consent of the governed." The beginning of our government today of which are to be found today — county, borough, jury, sheriff, coroner, and justice of the peace, for example. And all of these were well-known in England long before the first English men were heard of in America.

(2) The Twin Concepts of Limited Government and Civil Liberties. They brought with them, too, the twin ideas of limited government and civil liberties. That is, that government is not all-powerful; that government is limited to what it may do, and, especially, that it is limited in the ways that each man has certain rights that government cannot injure or take away. These great principles of freedom were proclaimed in such historic English documents as the Magna Carta in 1215, the Petition of Right in 1628, and the Bill of Rights and the Act of Toleration of 1689.

(3) The Concept of Representative Government. A third vitally important concept brought to America in English ships was that of representative government. For centuries there had been developing in England the
